I. BACKGROUND AND STATEMENT OF THE PROBLEM

Tourism sector has played an important role in economic development of a region. The increasingly high levels of development and prosperity in community have actually made tourism as a fundamental part of the human needs or lifestyles and mobilized millions of people to get acquainted with the nature and culture in other parts of the world. Such movement of millions of people has in turn moved the interlinked economic chain into a variety of service industries, which make an important contribution to the economy as well as the improvement of economic welfare at local community level.

There are tourism potentials in Yogyakarta Special Territory including natural, cultural and artificial tourism. Various performing arts developed well. Traditional and modern performing arts and modification of both may be found in people life. Cultural heritage in physical and non physical form and ritual are still kept and have strong root in the community. The rituals are done routinely by people and it is tourism potential that is appropriate for tourism agenda. In DIY renaissance strategy, tourism is the second strategic priority to develop in creating the province to reach vision of Yogyakarta Special Territory in 2025 as educational center, cultural center and tourism destination in Southeast Asia.

Bantul Regency is one of the regencies in Special Region of Yogyakarta, consisting of three subdistricts, i.e. Kretek Subdistrict, Sanden Subdistrict, and Srandakan Subdistrict. Bantul Regency has a strategic position in the constellation of tourism because the location is adjacent to urban centers than other regencies, and it has various leading tourism destinations to visit. Along the southern side, there is a coastal landscape called as the coastal areas of the South Coast with its potential marines and sandbank areas as one of the specific natural phenomenon. Kretak Subdistrict has the leading destination of natural tourism, artificial tourism, cultural tourism, special tourism, educational tourism, and tourist villages.

Several strategic reasons for the development of tourism areas of the South Coast in Bantul Regency are as follows: (1) Balance in the distribution of tourism in Special Region of Yogyakarta and Bantul Regency, (2) The great potentials of the South Coast as a tourism growth center in Bantul Regency and Special Region of Yogyakarta, (3) The strategic issues of tourism in Bantul Regency, including (a) the stagnation of tourism products so that it is necessary to create new tourism attractions and arrange the tourism destinations that have not operated optimally, (b) the reduced prestige of beaches in Bantul Regency, (c) the emergence of many environmental pollutions, unregulated building structures, the land use conflicts of interest, synergy in development program, and the strategic location that is close to the city and easily accessible, (4) The availability of tourism facilities, tourism growth embryos, and popular new tourism attractions (Parangtritis Beach, Depok Beach, Baru Beach, and so on), and (5) The great potentials to grow the diversity of local community tourism products (craft and culinary industries).

Tourist is people that want to spent their time at other city, province or state for recreation, business, study and other objectives [4]. In Iran, tourist industry is an important substitution for oil, because it created employment and gave high foreign exchange [4]. Tourism is acknowledged as intensive industry resource and has responsibility in realizing sustainable condition in local and global scale. Sustainable tourism is main objective in developing integrated environmental tourism. However, the research indicated that sustainability is complex concept and require comprehensive critical analysis [8], [9].
