4.1. Conclusion

Short story is very important to improve reading skills because short story have a certainty you will read the entire piece, the students can expose to new things, new information, new ways to solve a problem. Develops the mind, the minds is a muscle. Its needs exercise understanding. The written words is one way the mind grows in it is ability.

The research on reading short story has suggested that it is positive in several ways. Its presents with authentic and varied language material, it is also provides with contextualized communicative situation. Adult attitude and approach, the most important requirements is that between adults and children there be a fun approach. Because learning to read is a great game. Get used to the child reading with a penchant, can be made interesting game for children. Limit the time to do this game so it is short. Stops this game before child s wants to stop. Never force the child to learn to read without her own will. And can with the song, so that the child does not feel bored. In the class room, the witors makes the students reading task easer due to being simple and short when compared with the other genres, enlarge the advanced level readers, worldviews about different cultures and different group of people, motivates learners to reads due to being an authentic material, offers a world of wonders and a world of mystery, give students the chance to use their creativity, promote critical thinking skills, facilitates teaching a foreign culture, make students feel comfortable and free, help students coming from various background to communicate with which other, help students to go beyond the surface meaning and dive into underlying meaning, the last the writers acts as a perfect vehicle to help students understand the position of themselves as well as the other by transferring these gained knowledge to their own word.

After that, the teacher should also give a reward for the students who can do improving reading well. Teacher should give a motivation to the students that English is so important for them especially in reading.

4.2. Suggestion

For the reader who be a teacher or the researcher, it is important to really concern about this field to do observation. First is about the course and the problem of the lesson. They must consult and share with the primary teacher. They can choose the appropriate technique to help the students understand in English well.

For next writers who focus on teaching reading through short story. The teacher should be more creative in teaching process and the teacher should not only know the knowledge of the lesson material, but also the application in the daily life like the knowledge about manner. By using short story, the teacher expert the students more active and spirit in learning. They should consider about techniques, methods and procedures that may applied on the teaching process. The writers hope that this research can be appropriate source for the next researches.