

ABSTRACT

Devi Fitryani (12143515), Design of Information Systems Office Stationery Supply At the Office of Education Office Kec. Pabuaran Kab. Subang

Inventory of goods is always required in the company's activities. The existence of inventory on the one hand is a waste that can be said as a burden that must be eliminated, but on the other hand is necessary to ensure the smooth fulfillment of demand because if there is no supply then the need is not met. Inventory control is expected to increase profits so as to minimize the costs incurred. One of supporting operational smoothness in office Education Office UPTD Kec. Pabuaran Kab. Subang is the use of Stationery Office (ATK), for it required an effective and efficient inventory system. The availability of ATK can affect the quality and progress of activities organized by the organization or agency. This can be avoided by using a system of supplies of ATK by using a computer application, with this information system is expected to accelerate the completion of work at the Office of Education and divert data accurately with a faster time.

Keywords: Information System Design, Office Stationery Supply System